

USCIS FINAL FEE RULE

NOTE: Although the rule was supposed to take effect on October 2, a court in the Northern District of California ruled on September 29 that USCIS cannot implement the new fees or new forms at this time. This could change at any time, so please contact your attorney for the latest information on the various legal challenges.

WHAT HAS CHANGED?

On August 3, 2020, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issued a final rule outlining changes in fees for certain immigration and naturalization benefit requests which was scheduled to take effect October 2, 2020 (final fee rule). Notable changes:

CITIZENSHIP: $640 ▲$1,170
GREEN CARD/Adjustment of Status (AOS): $1,225 ▲$2,270
ASYLUM: Previously No Fee ▲$50

The final fee rule is expected to impact immigrants and nonimmigrants in several ways. Although the rule reduces filing fees for a select number of applications; it increases fees overall by a weighted average of 20% and includes dramatic increases for most common petitions and applications because previously bundled applications have now been separated. SPECIFIC CHANGES

The 2020 fee changes are the latest in a series of actions taken by the Trump administration to restrict legal immigration. The final fee rule will make the U.S. immigration process significantly less affordable for the majority of foreign nationals.

The final rule:

- Limits fee exemptions to only specified groups.
- Increases premium processing time limits.
- Adds new fees for certain immigration benefit requests, including asylum.
- Separates fees and creates new forms for each category of nonimmigrant worker.
- Limits the number of beneficiaries that can be included in certain petitions.
- Unbundles some applications, dramatically increasing fees for adjustment of status applications.
- Incorporates the cost of biometrics into most fees, rather than requiring a separate fee.
